Induction Reader

Volume 1, Winter 2005

Stimulating, carefully selected articles are particularly useful as resources for program leaders, staff developers, and policy makers. This annual publication includes a selection of such articles on issues related to new teacher and new administrator development, mentoring and professional development. They include keynote addresses from the annual NTC Symposium.

This issue of the Induction Reader includes the following articles:

- Supporting Mentors and New Teachers Chart a Successful Course, by Ellen Moir, New Teacher Center at the University of California, Santa Cruz
- Forgive and Remember: The Challenges and Opportunities of Learning from Experience, by Lee S. Shulman, The Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching
- Teachers as Teacher Educators, by Sharon Feiman-Nemser, Brandeis University
- Ensuring Students' Right to Learn, by Linda Darling-Hammond, Stanford University
- Learning to Teach for Social Justice, by Marilyn Cochran-Smith, Boston College
- Putting Race on the Table, by Enid Lee, Enidlee Consultants Inc.
- Coaching Expertise to Support Teacher Development, by Wendy Baron, Janet Gless, and Ellen Moir, New Teacher Center at the University of California, Santa Cruz.
